Fariborz David Diaan

Fariborz Davoodian also known as Fariborz David Diaan, is a popular actor, writer, director, producer, and entrepreneur. He is best known amongst us for his hilarious theatrical productions such as the Blind Date, The 99 cent family and Death Comedy. He was born in Tehran where he attended Abrishami elementary and Ettefagh high School. He left Iran at the age of 16 to continue his education in the United States, where he studied Radio, Television, and Journalism at the prestigious University of Missouri.

In addition to his performances on stage, Fariborz has starred and performed brilliantly in films like America So Beautiful, The Stoning of Soraya, Baba Joon and many others. His most recent film Baba Joon produced in 2015 in Israel, has been the winner of the Ophir Award (Israel's Oscar Award) and was the Premiere film screened at the opening night gala of the 29th Israel Film Festival this fall in Beverly Hills. The film is Israel's submission to the Academy Awards for 2015.

His television performances, including Homeland, Weed, NCI Los Angeles, and Brink, are numerous and he has worked side by side and shined next to some of the biggest names in Hollywood. His clever Saturday morning chats with Mrs. Homa Sarshar on 670 AM have become a household habit for many Iranians all over.

Fariborz has always been a friend to the community and his philanthropic activities include lending his time and efforts to organizations such as: Iranian Jewish Women's Organization, Magbit, Pars Community Center, Child Foundation, Omid Foundation and Iran Human Rights Foundation to name a few.

Fariborz and his beautiful wife Sogol who is a popular jewelry designer, are the parents of their 3 1/2 year old son Dastan.
